

"DISSECTION OF VIOLENCE" is the title of a forum series at West Valley College that will be concluded this Friday, Oct. 2 at 8 p.m.

The forum this Friday is the last of four that have been conducted and the speaker will be Wilbur Ferry, and the topic is "The Police State: American Mode".

According to the brochure announcing the forum on violence, it is classified as a non-graded class and residents of the junior college district were given priority in registering for it.

The brochure describes this Friday's speaker, Wilbur Ferry, as a teacher, critic, author, newspaperman, publicity director for both labor and industry and from 1954 to 1969 was vice-president of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions in Santa Barbara.

THREE OTHER SPEAKERS have appeared in the violence forum here at West Valley.

Bishop Edward Crowther, born and educated in England, an Episcopalian minister with degrees in law and history and prominent in civil rights activities, had as his topic: "Contemporary Revolution: The Faces of Violence".

Paul Jacobs, listed as a writer and social critic and a consultant at Center for Democratic Institutions and a former union official and organizer, had for his subject: "Violence as Politics".

The Rev. Lester Kinsolving, who is described as a columnist and free lance writer who has had first-hand exposure to the effects of violence while attached to the chaplain's office at San Quentin, developed the subject "The Major Threat to American Freedom".

OBVIOUSLY "EXPLORING" the subject of violence, because of the political and social turmoil in the country today, could be considered worthwhile and timely.

Provided, of course, that the "exploration" examines all facets of the problem.

Unfortunately, our schedule is such that Friday night is almost always booked and so it has been impossible for us to attend the forum and discover for ourselves how this "dissection of violence" series is presented.

WE HAVE HEARD SOME rumbles, however, from a few who have been in attendance who seem to feel that the forum could be improved on occasion by granting equal time to those whose philosophies and concepts were diametrically opposed to those that were being expounded from the lecture platform.

But we had a long chat with Gary Hubbard, who is Bill Deal's assistant in the college's office of community service that arranges for a wide range of events covering politics, baseball and opera presented at the college.

For example, Willie Mays, the famed Giants baseball star, will appear on Nov. 19. As a lecturer!

We learned that the four-part violence series was part of a "package deal" that was booked by the community service office.

We are all aware that violence does exist and there is nothing basically wrong in having it "dissected" from the podium.

We question, however, whether there is need to have four lectures on violence coming in the same package, so to speak.

We concede, of course, that each presentation was probably different. The subject, however, is one that has to be handled with asbestos gloves.

-And we are not sure the Split vote of trustees blocks removal of board president

A split vote (2-2) last Thursday night defeated a motion by Trustee Judy Ruscigno which would have removed Dr. Richard MacQuiddy as president of the Campbell Union (elementary) School District board of trustees.

Mrs. Ruscigno and Jim Gilliland, former board president and currently vice-president, voted for the motion while Mrs. Eleanor Graham-Armstrong and MacQuiddy opposed it.

Ralph Steinberg, the other board member, was absent.

In making her motion, Mrs. Ruscigno maintained that the board had lost confidence in the leadership of its president which was indicated by the failure of the board to resolve many of the problems facing the district.

The dramatic motion was made as the last one of 14 items listed under "communications" on the board's agenda.

Prior to her motion, Mrs. Ruscigno distributed sealed letters to the other board members present. The contents of the letter were not revealed.

Mrs. Graham-Armstrong in opposing the motion said that it was Mrs. Ruscigno's prerogative to take such action but added that it was "presumptuous", in her opinion.

She received a hand from the largely teacher-dominated crowd when she urged Mac-Quiddy to vote against the motion which he did. His vote also brought applause from those present. About 74 people were jammed into the board room.

In a press statement the next day, MacQuiddy said:

"I regret the hasty and ill-considered action on the part of a very young and inexperienced board member. Mrs. Ruscigno's motion served no worthwhile purpose. Rather it needlessly alarmed the community and the employees of the district."

"I was surprised and sincerely pleased at the support shown me by the audience in their ovation at the end of the voting. I value the esteem of the people in the audience since they represented a cross section of the community as well as representatives of every department and professional group in the school district.

"It is my hope that all of us in the community, whatever our relationship to the school district, can work together cooperatively for the welfare of the children in our schools."

Although the board members had not issued any statements during recent weeks as

ON PLANNERS' AGENDA MONDAY

Plans for Amato tract arouse city interest

One of Campbell's few remaining sizeable tracts now zoned for single family dwelling units, the 31-acre Amato property on W. Campbell Ave., is scheduled to be in the lime-light next Monday night, Oct. 5, at the Planning Commission meeting.

A zone change application has been filed with the city by the Amato family and the firm of Charles W. Anderson Co., consulting engineers, that would change the present R-1 (single family residential) zoning to P-D (planned development).

The matter originally came before the Planning Commission on Sept. 8 and was continued to the Oct. 5 meeting.

Present at the first meeting were a number of residents from the Hedegard, Sondra-Branbury sector, who expressed concern over the zone change proposal, leading to a four-plex development on the property, which would border on their single family dwelling areas.

The residents are expected to be in attendance again next Monday.

According to applicants, a four-plex condominium project

REFERENDUM ON DRIVE-IN THEATER ZONING

Council calls election

By a unanimous vote the City Council on Monday night ruled that citizens of Campbell will decide a controversial zoning question in the first referendum election (probably next January) in this city's history.

The vote followed a report by City Attorney Joe Bonacina on the Council's alternatives with respect to the petition that had been presented with 1217 qualified signatures requesting the Council to either repeal a recently enacted zoning ordinance affecting the Winchester Drive-in Theater or call an election on the issue.

The petitioners have taken exception to the zone change from R-3 (apartments) to

M-I-S (industrial) that the City Council approved after almost two years of hearings, on a six-acre parcel adjoining the present theater and owned by Syufy Enterprises, operators of the theater.

The theater wants to put a third screen on the property as part of the two-screen operation that is now in effect on the adjoining land.

The motion that was approved directed the staff to prepare the necessary resolutions and put the machinery into operation to set up the referendum election.

The resolutions are expected to be ready by the next Council meeting.

City Clerk Dorothy Trevelyan has indicated that the earliest time for the election would be in January.

City Manager Bob Stephens informed the Council that it will be necessary to transfer $5000 from the city's unallocated reserve to defray the costs of the special election.

Bonacina in his report explained that the Council could stand firm and not call the election or repeal the ordinance and force the petitioners to take court action.

In a related matter at the meeting Monday, the Council gave first reading (over the objections of Councilman Ed Rogers) to an ordinance that would allow modification to the present 1000-foot limitation for drive-in theaters in relation to residential areas.

COUNCIL REVERSES STAND

White Oaks closure wins second round

In a series of complicated actions, the City Council on Monday by a 3-2 vote reversed an action taken on Sept. 14 and scheduled a public hearing for Nov. 9 on the question of closing White Oaks Road.

In arriving at the final action, three motions were needed and all three of them received the same voting alignment with Councilmen Ralph Doetsch and Bill Smeed standing firm on the original action taken.

The Council had voted 4-1 on Sept. 14 to delay holding a hearing on the White Oaks closure until after the interchange had been completed and a traffic survey had been conducted.

But Councilmen Ed Rogers and Bill Pogorsek, who had voted originally for the delay in the hearing, changed their votes, Monday. They indicated that they felt the citizens in the area deserved a hearing on the matter and in addition the city's master plan specified that the street would be closed by cul-de-sacs.

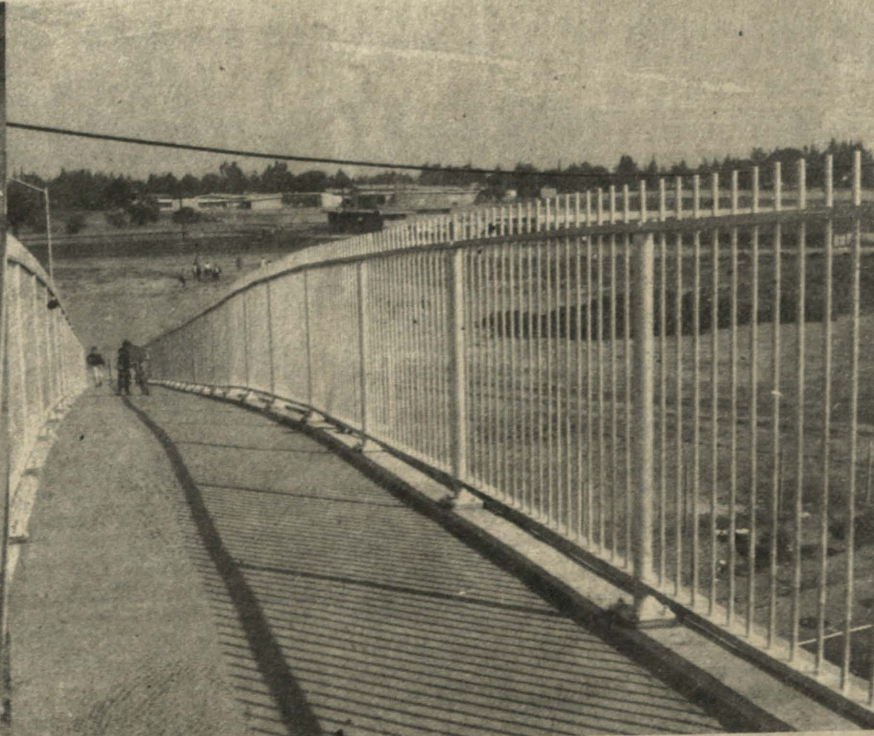

Mayor Dean Chamberlin, the lone dissenting vote in the first round, also held to his original position and voted for the hearing date.

The White Oaks issue was not scheduled on the agenda for Monday. It was brought up under "oral requests" when Jim Johnson, of 1785 White Oaks, asked the City Council to reconsider its action and schedule a public hearing because of the need.

Other speakers included Mrs. Marie Johnson, of 1785 White Oaks, Lewis J. Sayer, of 1480 White Oaks, Robert B. Hanley, of 1160 White Oaks, and John D. Turner, of 1675 White Oaks.

They also stressed the point that traffic would increase because of the improvement to the interchange and signal at Camden and that no traffic study was necessary to prove

It's go-go on Rincon overpass

THE WAY TO GO—The newly completed $100,000 overpass spanning San Tomas Expressway between Budd and Campbell Aves is currently in use by school children and other pedestrians. Some problems have arisen with the use of the giant bridge, according to school authorities.

Although regulations strictly prohibit the taking of bikes over except by walking them, a number of "new games" have been developed, hazardous to the children's safety.

One of these is to allow the bike to build up momentum and then jump clear at the bottom of the steep slope. Others have discovered that climbing the fence which protects walkers from the danger of falling is a daring experience.

Editorial

All concerned

The situation that has developed in the Campbell Union (elementary) School District, which reached the climax last week when a motion to remove the board president resulted in a split vote (2-2), obviously needs to be clarified.

The motion failed to pass because of the split (one member was absent) but the fact still remains that there is a definite need for some clear thinking on the part of all concerned as what has to be done to remedy matters.

And "all concerned" means just that. No single group in the school district has any monopoly on "concern". We are all concerned.

It has been quite obvious for some time that something was amiss in the district.

The motion the other night by Judy Ruscigno to remove Dr. Richard MacQuiddy as president, seconded by Jim Gilliland and opposed by Eleanor Graham-Armstrong, was just visible evidence of the problems that exist.

It is our candid opinion that much of the trouble that exists among the board members has been caused by the increasing militancy of leaders of organized groups within the district who are continuously exerting pressure on the trustees.

We sincerely believe that the time has come for these leaders to back off and take a long, hard look at the situation. We believe also that the members of their respective organizations must recognize that until the pressure is lessened by their leaders there will be constant friction.

We are well aware that this militant attitude on the part of the leaders has become popular in this day and age.

But what the leaders of the teachers' groups in the Campbell School District fail to realize, in our opinion, is that a school district does not exist solely for the teachers or is the operation of the district the sole concern of the teachers.

The public foots the bill and is concerned.

Parents who have youngsters in school are concerned.

The administrators are concerned.

And the school board is concerned.

Teacher groups have every right to make suggestions. They have every right to negotiate for better working conditions and pay.

And there is nothing wrong in being aggressive and determined in their approach on these matters.

But this aggressiveness must have a sound basis and should not be used merely as a means to apply pressure through a show of strength stemming, unfortunately, in too many instances, from purely selfish interests.

The president of the teachers association at the last school board meeting in his opening statement submitted a concept that emphasizes what we are trying to say:

"As teachers", he said, "our primary role is educating children and we would like to return to that role rather than spending much of our time trying to resolve problems that should be resolved by the board of trustees."

It is our opinion that the teachers in the district, through their leaders, have become so involved in policy and other matters of the district that they have almost lost sight of their primary objectives.

That is why we suggest that the time has come for them to analyse their actions and be certain that their "demands" are not merely self-centered or ones that indicate a show of "power".

Obviously teachers in a school district have the major roles to play. No one denies their importance.

Without teachers there is no district.

What we are trying to say, however, is that there are other aspects to the operation of a district which, too, are highly important.

We thus agree with the president of the teachers association that the teachers should return to their proper role and not spend so much time in trying to resolve other problems.

And, unfortunately, because of their approach, in our opinion, many of these problems that they want to resolve have been created by this approach.

We think a good hard look at the situation is needed by all concerned.

And we do mean all.

"LOVERED CARPORTS?"

At a recent Planning Commission meeting, Commissioner Ed Pack, after examining an apartment complex plan that had been presented, somewhat skeptically and cautiously asked the applicant what was meant by "loved carports" on the plan.

Much to the relief of all concerned, it turned out to be a misprint.

It was supposed to have been "covered carports" on the plan...

That was understood by all. But one can't be too careful these days with all these expressions about "love" floating around.

A BULKY ENVELOPE

came to the office in the mail this week with the following message in bold, red lettering on the outside:

"PERSONAL AND VERY IMPORTANT...URGENT ACTION REQUESTED"

We dutifully waded through the material that was enclosed. We found it neither personal nor very important.

And we are still trying to find out what was meant by that "urgent action" bit.

But we did dispose of the matter.

A CALLER LAST FRIDAY informed the office somewhat nostalgically that an old haunt of many of the businessmen of town was disappearing because of the widening of Bascom Ave.

The guy had reference to the closing down of "Murray's", operated by Murray Martin for the past 18 years, that he classified as "an old talkin' spot".

The party, who identified himself as an old customer of that well known watering spot on Bascom, thought that the closing down of the place was worthy of a human interest story.

He really may have a good point.

Of course, one would have to sift the material a wee bit. But some little gems undoubtedly could be uncovered.

We will have to work on it.

ONE OF THE MOST OUTSTANDING community events in recent years was the retirement banquet that was held last week for six Campbell volunteer fire fighters.

The six guys had served the community as volunteer firemen for a combined total of 155 years!

They deserved to be honored for that record of service.

We add our congratulations to the loyal six, Walter Silberbauer, George Adamson, Joe Lipari, Herman Rice, John Yerkovich and Ray Evora.

Fire Chief George Maxwell did an excellent job in spearheading the event and Homer Hyde, as master-of-ceremonies, performed with tact, skill and finesse.

WE MISSED HOMER'S main joke, we are sorry to report, because we attended a school board meeting prior to the dinner and came in late.

But the joke must have been good we think.

Being a considerate person, Homer asked Frank Kukuk to repeat the classic for our benefit. Later Bob Stephens elaborated on it as did Homer.

We think we have it down pat now, although we are not sure what we are going to do with it.

Hyde, by the way, has had good practice at the mike recently.

Last week he took part in a panel in San Francisco sponsored by PG&E.

He was a little concerned, we understand, when he found that he was to follow Assemblyman George Milias, an old pro, on the panel.

He apparently acquitted himself admirably.

Wonder if he told his joke? You see there was this rooster.....

PUC approves rate boost for S.J. Water Works

Customers of San Jose Water Works will have their rates for water service boosted in three steps according to a decision issued by the State Public Utilities Commission.

The initial increase, which becomes effective October 16 and will remain in effect until October 1, 1971, represents a 12 percent increase over the charge under present rates.

For a typical metered customer, with average monthly consumption of 2,175 cubic feet of water through a 5/8 x 3/4-inch meter, the charge will be $9.32 as compared with $8.33 under the present rates.

Subsequently, in the decision approved today by the PUC, additional two percent increases may go into effect on October 1, 1971 and on October 1, 1972, after the water utility submits earnings statements to the PUC.

The Commission said the new rates should produce a rate of return for the water company of 7.4 percent over a period of 36 months.

The increase does not apply to the water sold by the utility for resale.

"SPOT ZONING?"

By a 3-2 vote, the City Council on Monday approved the zone change on two parcels at 1785 and 1801 Hacienda which would allow 15 units on the two lots now zoned R-1.

The two negative voters were Councilmen Bill Podgorssek and Ed Rogers who indicated that the zone change (from R-1 to R-M) could be considered "spot zoning". Favoring the change were Mayor Dean Chamberlin, and Councilmen Bill Smeed and Ralph Doetsch.

TRANSIT PROPOSAL

Members of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce board of directors will meet at Bodega Restaurant, 30 S. Central, this Thursday at noon to hear a presentation on the county transit proposal that will be on the Nov. 3 ballot.

Jim Pott, county public works director, will explain the proposition. The CoC directors are expected after the presentation to decide what action to take in the campaign. Members of the City Council are also expected to be at the meeting.

Appeals board gets new head

Robert E. Dakan, a San Jose mortgage loan broker, has been chosen as 1970-71 chairman of the County's Assessment Appeals Board.

Dakan succeeds Walter Doyle, a property appraiser. The other members of the board are Doyle and Howard R. Weichert, a Morgan Hill rancher, with Fred La Cosse, a television news director, as an alternate.

The board members are appointed to three-year terms by the County Board of Supervisors, and they hear appeals from property assessments set by the County Assessor's Office.

Property owners who believe the assessed valuation or taxable value set on their property by the Assessor's staff is too high have the right to appeal to the board.

that a traffic problem existed. They emphasized that it was not a new issue and that the city and county staff personnel favored the cul-de-sac concept and that the city's master plan, approved by the Council and Planning Commission, specified the closing.

They also stressed that 85% of the residents, as evidenced by the names on the petitions favored the closing of the street.

Councilman Doetsch periodically took exception to some of the points raised by the proponents of the street closing and engaged in verbal exchanges with them from time to time.

John M. Chargin, former mayor of Campbell, and representing some of the owners of industrial property in the area just off Camden, maintained that it was the "democratic way" to delay the hearing until all the facts were ascertained by a traffic survey.

The first motion made and carried 3-2 (Doetsch, Smeed dissenting) was to reconsider the action taken on Sept. 14.

Discussion took place then on the original motion (to delay the hearing until the traffic survey was made). Then a vote was taken. This time Doetsch and Smeed voted to delay, as they had the first time but with the switch by Rogers and Podgorssek the motion lost.

The final motion then was to adopt an ordinance of intention to vacate White Oaks Road and hold a public hearing on the question on Nov. 9. The same voting alignment held on that motion also.

ject would be developed on the Amato property which would meet the city's general plan as far as the overall density was concerned.

The land use plan as envisioned in the master plan for the area, the applicants point out, would place high density next to the expressway with medium density next to it. Low density (single-family) would then be on the remainder of the area (about 15 acres).

The applicants claim that the four-plex project to be constructed by the McKeon Construction Co. would even the density in the entire parcel.

The Planning Commission next Monday is also expected to consider the modified plans for a Colonel Sanders chicken restaurant that is planned for Winchester and Latimer.

Royal Development Co., is also scheduled to present plans for a 72-unit apartment complex on the north side of Gale between Marathon and Darryl, just south of the new Fry's Market on Hamilton.

The firm had asked in the interest of expediency that the "overlay" zoning that is now on the property be removed but neither the Planning Commission nor the City Council approved the "o" removal.

Because of the "overlay zoning", public hearings on the proposed plan must be held by both the Commission and the City Council.

CITY LANDSCAPING

Members of the Planning Commission, Parks and Recreation Commission and the Beautification Committee, will get a chance to look over the preliminary landscaping plans for the new city hall before the final plans are drafted to go out to bid.

Bill Hedley, architect for the city hall, unveiled the preliminary first plans Monday night at the City Council meeting. The plans basically call for magnolia trees to ring the center.

The Council wanted its advisory bodies to view the plans before final action was taken on going for bids.

oping among the members.

A number of executive sessions have been held with no announcements made as to actions taken or matters discussed.

However, also under the "communication" part of the board's agenda and prior to Mrs. Ruscigno's motion, Herb Wadley, president of the teachers association, indicated in a statement an awareness of some of the problems.

Wadley submitted that there was an obvious conflict between Superintendent Neal Royer and C. E. Bradley, district business manager, and that there was also a lack of harmony between some board members and the superintendent.

He also emphasized that there was a "gap" between the principals and teachers and a breakdown of the salary negotiation system.

He noted that the teachers desired to return to their proper role of educating children rather than spend so much time in trying to resolve other problems.

According to most observers of the district scene, friction stems to a large degree from the two special trustee elections that were held this year, one in February and the other in July.

MacQuiddy was elected February 17 and thus "outranked" Mrs. Ruscigno by only four months.

MacQuiddy topped Mrs. Ruscigno, who ran second in a field of eight, by 396 votes. But on July 21, Mrs. Ruscigno headed a field of six with 2983 votes, 868 votes ahead of Mrs. Joan Franks, who placed second.

It was in the July voting that the "sides were chosen" and cast their shadows on things to come.

In an unprecedented action, three of the present board members, MacQuiddy, Mrs. Graham-Armstrong and Steinberg, publicly supported Mrs. Franks, who lost her bid for trustee.

Gilliland, the other trustee, endorsed Mrs. Ruscigno.

Mrs. Franks, as had MacQuiddy, also received the support of some teacher groups.

Cabrini recruits more youngsters for theater

The San Jose Children's Musical Theater, sponsored by the Cabrini Community Theater, has openings for youngsters from 13 to 21 who are interested in singing, dancing, and other aspects of stage work. The current production of a "Survey of American Musical Theater", to be performed in early January will involve hit tunes and routines from nine musicals ranging from operettas to musical plays.

The "Survey" is part of the Cabrini Community Theater's Winter Workshop which is also sponsoring an experimental Marionette-Musical, "Jack and the Beanstalk", using youngsters from five to nine as well as Marionettes onstage. This will be performed on Oct. 17 at 3 and 8:15 p.m. at the St. Frances Cabrini Hall on Camden Ave., between Union and Bascom Aves.

Directing the workshop is CCT resident director, John P. Healy, Jr. of Stanford. Healy, who has performed throughout our valley, was most recently seen in the lead role of the West Valley Light Opera's "Anything Goes". In addition, his CCT Tour Group, the Entr'actes, won the senior talent contest at this year's Santa Clara County Fair.

The Cabrini Community Theater is one of the fastest growing and fastest going theaters for young people in the area. In the last year they have presented 13 productions ranging from Broadway Reviews to old time operettas and such classics in American Theater as "Of Thee I Sing", the only musical to win a Pulitzer Prize for drama.

they used their street as a giant picnic area recently—they were all there. The Amato-Hedegard families enjoyed their end-of-the-summer event.

A way to salute the end-of-summer was recently instigated by the neighbors of Amato and Hedegard, two small dead-end streets.

Nine families joined together to hold a barbecue and family games including a presentation to one of their neighbors, Mike Alvares, recent Little League world series pitcher.

Forty people participated including the Zandstras, Mauldings, Bert Robinsons, Bill Robinsons, Alvares, Hansens, Bravos, McDonoughs and Giffords.

The Amato-Hedegard celebration was considered as a kind of reunion, signifying the safe return from vacations and the readying for another school and work year.

Bringing up fido

Dog owners are frequently perplexed as to when to consult a veterinarian.

To be perfectly honest, my dog sees a vet far more frequently than my child sees a pediatrician.

Unfortunately, a dog can't tell you where he hurts or if he vomited because he overate or because he has a virus.

As easy as dogs are to care for in some respects, knowing how to treat their illnesses can be a problem.

I am not too quick to panic over a little diarrhea, but an inflamed eye upsets me. I know that a little peccate-type medicine can work wonders, but I've never been silly enough to think I could remove a fox-tail from an eye.

Many times a dog can develop a serious condition because no one REALLY looks at him. A dog died of an infection that might have been cleared up, but was hampered because he was so weakened by flea bites and resulting sores that treatment came too late.

The owner of a local dachshund kennel called the other day to report the loss of a beloved pet - 15½ years old!

Which points up again one of my "preaching" points - that care is important in selecting a pet - they're with you for a long while.

Stopped at two beautiful roadside rests on Highway 101 coming home from a dog show in southern California recently. Traditionally, we leash our dogs and walk them over away from the picnic grounds and buildings. How unhappy we were to find that many people felt turning their dogs loose on the lawns was acceptable!

Winter will be here soon. Is your dog going to have shelter from the cold? If you've been "thinking" about a new dog house or a cement run, put your thoughts into action.

Last week was National Dog Week. In our house, every day is a dog day, but then, according to the Chinese, is this not the year of the Dog?

YOUR CARRIER WILL BE CALLING ON YOU during the next 10 days for his regular monthly collection. Please have your change (35¢) ready so that he may meet his obligation. THANK YOU.

Mrs. Marian W. Jensen, who holds a master's degree from the University of Utah in child development, will instruct the course.

Interested participants in the course must register at the Office of Community Services, 44 E. Latimer Ave., Campbell, room L-26, telephone 379-1733, ext. 58.

ON CAPITOL

with
"Charlie" Gubser

Seventeen years ago in what, relatively speaking, was peace time the Defense Department was spending only a minor fraction of what it spends today and employed substantially fewer people. But even then Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett told President Truman in his farewell report that "it has always amazed me that the system [the Defense Department] worked at all..."

In late July of this year Mr. Gilbert W. Fitzhugh concluded a year-long study of the Pentagon as Chairman of the President's Blue Ribbon Panel on the Department of Defense. His statement in releasing the report seemed like an echo from Secretary Lovett. Said Mr. Fitzhugh, "Frankly, we think it's an impossible organization to administer. We are amazed it works at all..."

Repeated studies of the Pentagon have always suggested a complete restructuring, a redistribution of responsibility and a consolidation of commands to prune away duplication. Each succeeding study has gathered dust and what red tape was cut grows back faster than jungle foliage. As Mr. Fitzhugh reported, Pentagon officials "spend their time coordinating with each other and shuffling papers back and forth and that's what causes all red tape and the big staffs in the Department."

Mr. Lovett also said the same thing 17 years ago: "The amount of paper work that goes on in the field is perfectly appalling...From my personal experiences, if you make 100 copies on something and three people read it ...you are darn lucky."

In the 17 years since Lovett's administration the Pentagon has been restructured and streamlined at least a half dozen times, but, in my opinion, grows worse with each reorganization. As a member of the Armed Services Committee I am frequently appalled at the maladministration which permeates the Pentagon, regardless of what efficiency experts may occupy top-level jobs.

Under Secretary McNamara, decision making was overcentralized in the Office of the Secretary of Defense. McNamara, a brilliant man, trusted no one but himself to make major decisions. This led to the recommendation by the Fitzhugh panel that 27 separate departments be controlled by three new Deputy Secretaries of Defense, one for operations, another for resources (men and material), and the test and evaluation of weaponry.

Another recommendation of the Fitzhugh panel is that the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who now have day-to-day operational responsibilities of the military services, be relegated to a planning and advisory role and that a new operational staff structure be developed.

During my service in Congress I have seen dozens of new Assistant and Deputy Secretaries authorized in the interest of efficiency, but somehow these new offices develop responsibilities and work loads of their own which are guarded with proprietary jealousy and the old agencies they were supposed to replace go on and on.

I do not wish to make a premature judgment of the Fitzhugh report. Undoubtedly there is much about it which should be implemented and next year the Armed Services Committee on which I serve will go into the matter thoroughly and take appropriate action. I hope we can find the answer to what the Pentagon needs.

A WINTER IN THE HILLS, by John Wain (Fiction)

Roger Furnivall, a philologist, has come to the university town of Caserfernai in North Wales to pursue his researches on the Welsh tongue and thus qualify himself for a job at the University of Uppsala, where there is a department of Celtic studies. His somewhat distempered hijacking of the local school bus leads, not totally inevitably, to his involvement in local and perhaps universal affairs. John Wain has gone far beyond a cameo of a seemingly minor incident in a provincial setting. Furnivall's gradual engagement in a situation which is no concern of his, brilliantly underscores the individual's struggle against the unrelenting encroachment of the forces that would make him one of the herd: socially, ethically, racially, and individually.

Plans wedding

Patricia Ruth Kyle, daughter of Mrs. Jack Jones of Campbell and Delmer Kyle of Angwin, will marry Paul Mark McPherson on Dec. 20 in the Napa Seventh-Day Adventist Church, her family and friends learned at a dinner at the home of Mrs. Jones recently.

Patricia, who is a student at Pacific Union College, graduated from Napa Junior Academy and Rio Linda Academy. Her fiancé, son of Elder and Mrs. Robert McPherson of Merced, attended Yuba City Jr. Academy and Modesto Union Academy.

Following their wedding the young couple plan to continue their education at Pacific Union College. Paul will attend Andrews University next year and complete his theology work.

Burned church rebuilding starts

Rev. Harry Twining of Saratoga Baptist Church has announced the approval of a building permit to rebuild a portion of that church which was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin last January.

The beginning building operation was celebrated by an "ice cream social" on the floor left from the gutted building. Contractor Len Hunker spoke to the 200 participating church members and said he hoped the building could be completed in 90 days.

The new building has twice the floor space as the old one and while it will be used as a sanctuary now, it ultimately will be used as a gym-auditorium combination.

AT THE SITE-The next building which will arise at the site of the burned-out Saratoga Baptist Church, 1735 Saratoga Ave., will be larger than the old one, according

Moreland LL Auxiliary plans valley snowfall

To the amazement of many native Californians, Los Gatos is going to have a snowfall on November 5.

It won't be quite the same as the snow we remember "back East" and not a Jack Frost type snow but a "Snowfall of Fashions" being dropped by the Moreland Little League Auxiliary.

This "Snowfall" will consist of fashionable winterwear from Town and Country's House of Golf, Slack Shack, Colman's and Elizabeth Byrne's and will begin falling at a luncheon at Villa Felice, Los Gatos at 12:30.

Sally Hunting, Fashion Coordinator for Town and Country Shopping Center, will be acting as moderator and describe the fashions worn by moms of the Little Leaguers. Showing off the pretty apparel will be Mrs. John Hendrycks, Mrs. Richard McDonald, Mrs. Gene Sowers, Mrs. W. C. Duck, Mrs. Luis Duplantier, Mrs. James Rouse, Mrs. Dan Fairless, Mrs. Kent Brooks, Mrs. ElRay Hamerly, Mrs. Ralph Riplinger and Mrs. Minier Scadden who is also chairman of the event.

Many valuable door prizes will be given away and raffle winners will be drawn at the luncheon. The first prize is a $300 gift certificate from Macy's, second prize a $100 gift certificate, also from Macy's, and third prize is a fabulous Mirelle wig. Many kinds of holiday decorations used to enhance the setting will be sold following the luncheon. Because of space, a limited number of tickets are available. Tickets or information may be obtained from Mrs. W. C. Duck, 252-6918 or Mrs. Dan Fairless, 379-5293.

From the files of The Campbell Press

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO
Congressman Charles Guber told an audience in Campbell last night that President Eisenhower is not in any way against reclamation projects, but that he wants them set up so that they will pay their own way.

The meeting, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Sanders on Budd Ave., was also addressed by Assemblyman Bruce Allen of San Jose.

At an adjourned meeting Tuesday evening, the city council introduced for first reading an ordinance calling a Special Municipal Bond Election for Tuesday, Oct. 18 on three measures to be voted on separately to provide a city hall, a fire station and a corporation yard. The city hall measure calls for bonding to the extent of $55,000.

The Fire House measure calls for $35,000 in bonds and the Corporation Yard measure calls for bonds in the amount of $10,000.

The new Camden High School with its 28 classrooms in Cambrian Park is to formally open its doors Monday, Sept. 19 with a faculty of 32 teachers prepared to enroll and instruct 700 students. The school was built at a cost of approximately $1,099,000.

TEN YEARS AGO
Clifford T. Cassidy, a "fixtured" and part owner of The Campbell Press for the past 12 years, on Sept. 1, severed his connection with the newspaper and its affiliated commercial printing division. He is now associated with Brian & Ralph, a printing firm in San Jose.

Newly-appointed City Manager Milton S. Hetzel, who takes office as Campbell's first city manager on Oct. 3, will be the guest speaker at the monthly luncheon meeting of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce.

Bert Harris, manager of Campbell Liquor and Sporting Goods at 220 E. Campbell Ave., has identified a battered patient at a San Jose hospital as the burglar he bopped over the head with a baseball bat early Saturday morning.

ONE YEAR AGO
A report on the possibility of establishing a mini-bus system for the service of senior citizens in the area is on the City Council's agenda for next Monday night.

Two sub-standard residential streets (Sunnyside and Kennedy) will be improved at a cost of $149,955.19 through the cooperation of the city and property owners involved.

SCHOOL AWARD—Barbara Tragna, student representative from Hamilton School, receives an award from Mayor Dean Chamberlin, right, at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon last week. Left is Mrs. Jeanette Watson, beautification chairman, and Charles Reed, principal of Hamilton School.

FOR AINSLEY CORPORATION—Mrs. Jeanette Watson presented an award to Mrs. Louella Miles and Mrs. Marjory Allen who represented Ainsley Corporation, owners of Campbell Medical-Dental Center who were awarded second place in the large business beautification class.

Eleven local businesses honored for beautification

Eleven businesses were honored at a luncheon sponsored by the Campbell Chamber of Commerce last week. Three elementary schools were also spot-lighted, all for their involvement in beautification projects.

Jointly sponsoring the luncheon was the Campbell Beautification Committee, headed by Mrs. Jeanette Watson. Honored guest speaker was Bill Siden, area development staff member for PG&E.

Siden showed slides of scenes taken all over California, some depicting "good" beautification and others showing the backyards of commercial businesses.

Tommy Blackmun's Campbell Floral Shop was given first place in the small business category. Second was Animal Medical Center and third was Jeffers Mens and Boys Wear. Tommy Blackmun, Dr. Robert King, and Rex Jeffers were all present at the luncheon to receive their awards.

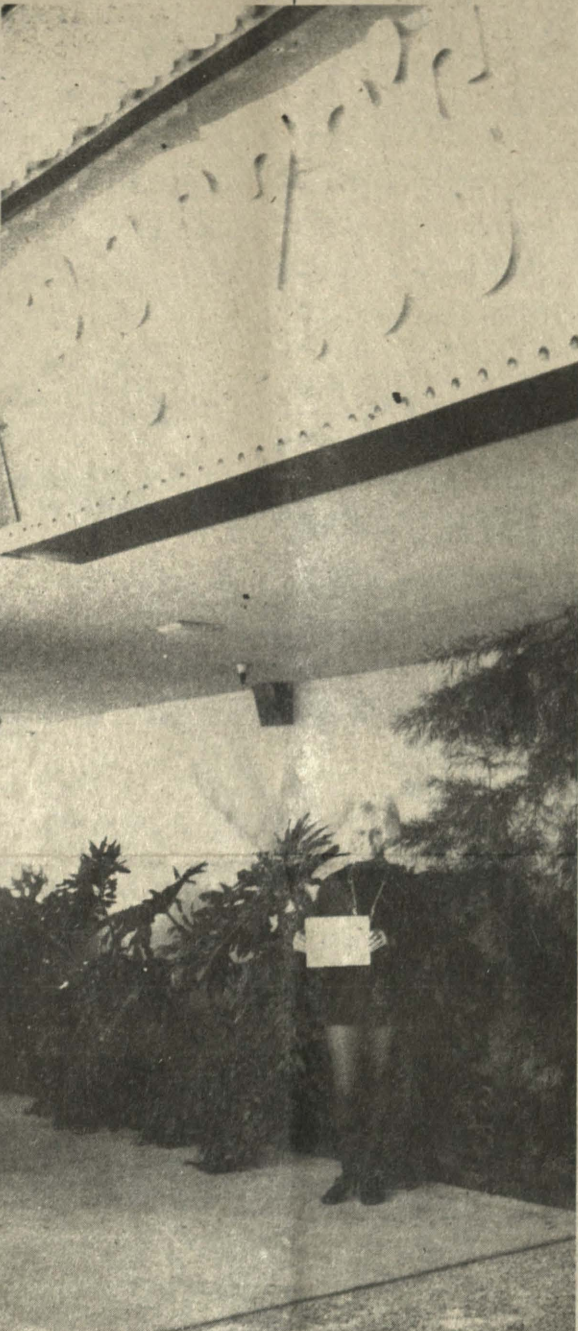

Three restaurants scored in the medium business category. First was Renzo's; second was Mr. Steak on Bascom Ave. and third was the Tiki-Ho on Winchester.

Campbell Water Co., Campbell Medical-Dental Building, and Winchester Medical Center were first, second and third in the large business category.

category.

Two special awards were made also. Hedley and Associates were commended for their non-illuminated sign and Valley Realty for their illuminated sign.

MEDIUM BUSINESS CLASS—Renzo's Continental Cuisine was awarded first place in the medium business classification offered by the Campbell

Beautification Committee. Shirl Willingham, wife of one of the owners, poses outside the entrance.

Veterans who miss one exemption can file by Oct. 2, for another

Veterans who were denied a veterans property tax exemption this year can file for the homeowners exemption if they hurry, reports County Assessor Dwight Mathiesen.

An emergency state law has been enacted and signed which gives them until 5 p.m. on Oct. 2 to file for the homeowners exemption.

The veterans exemption reduces the assessed valuation or taxable value of a home by $1,000. The homeowners exemption is worth a $750 reduction in the taxable value. Applications for either exemption normally must be filed with the Assessor's Office between March 1 and April 15.

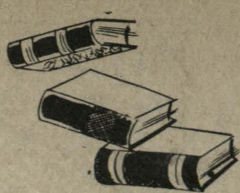

A veteran loses the vet's exemption if the assessed value of his home is more than $5,000, for a single person, or $10,000 for a married couple. The assessed valuation is about one-fourth of the market or cash value of a home.

Anyone who lost the veterans exemption should come to the Assessor's Office in person. Wives or husbands of veterans may file the application.

To be eligible for the homeowners exemption under the new law, veteran-property owners must meet three requirements, according to Mathiesen.

The veterans must have filed for the veterans exemption between March 1 and April 15. They must have owned and lived in their home, duplex, or condominium apartment on March 1, and they must file the new application by Oct. 2.
